Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2001	1:72	Lippisch Li.P.13B Luft '46 Ramjet concept. In 1944, Germany started to face the fuel shortage problem. Dr. Alexander Lippisch and his design team had proceeding with the P.13a design in Austria and he though to try 'coal' to be a new kind of fuel for his ramjet fighter concepts. A hexagonal shape combustion chamber was selected for coal filling from a center top but it was no way to fit into the P.13a fuselage. So the differen...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£20.82	1
Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2002	1:72	Bell X-22 Tilting ducts VTOL experiment. During early 1950s, Bell Aircraft began studying conventional propeller and jet design. In 1957, Bell signed contract from Navy for design of ducted propeller assault transport with VTOL capability. This study also caught attention of the Air Force, Marine Corp and Army, and joined for study during 1959. In 1962, Bell and Navy signed contract for the new test-bed, designated X-22. Its d... Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2005	1:72	Curtiss-Wright X-19 Tilt-propellers VTOL experiment. In 1958, Curtiss-Wright started the four passengers VTOL commercial aircraft program without any government support. It was designed with a tilting propeller at each wing tip that a nacelle could rotate in pointing vertical for take off and landing and pointing horizontal for cruise. When the two prototypes were almost completed, Curtiss-Wright decided to offer these two air...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£31.66	0
Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2008	1:72	Doak VZ-4DA Archaeopteryx of tilt-ducts VTOL. The Doak Model 16 was the first aircraft to demonstrate the tilt duct concept. In 1956, U.S. Army ordered a prototype, indicated VZ-4DA. The configuration was the tilting duct blower where located at each wing tip, pointing vertical for take off and landing, and rotated to the horizontal for forward flight. Engine exhaust was deflected at the fuselage rear for pitch control. To lim...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£29.16	0

Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2014	1:72	Northrop HL-10 The fastest Lifting body. In 1962, NASA started a program to build a lightweight, powerless lifting body, the M2-F1 as a prototype to study the wingless vehicle concept. It was designed to demonstrate the ability of pilots to maneuver in the atmosphere, and safety landing after reentry from space. With the success of the M2-F1 program, which led to NASA's development of two heavyweight, powered lifting bodies, t...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£29.16	2
Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2015	1:72	Northrop M2-F2 First powered Lifting body. In 1957, NASA had investigated the problems associated with re-entry from space of missile nose cone. Engineers conceived the lifting body idea that by modifying a cone shape, aerodynamic lift could be produced to fly back from space rather than plunge to the earth. This study led to the design known as the M-2, a 'M'odified half-cone, rounded on bottom and flat on top, with twin tail...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£29.16	2
Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2016	1:72	XF-109 Tilting jets VTOL supersonic fighter. In 1953, Bell Aircraft Corp developed a VTOL research aircraft, the Model 65 ATV that a pair of turbojets were mounted one each side of the fuselage and could rotated at the aircraft center. The ATV program ended in 1955 and gave Bell experience of the VTOL jet flight, that also led to U.S. Air Force and Navy sponsorship of the project D-188A tilting jets fighter, designated USAF's ... In 1949, U.S. Air Force introduced the new 'weapons system' concept, in which consisting of the air-to-air guided missiles, fire control system and the '1954 interceptor' capable of supersonic flight. The project was designed to intercept the new Soviet intercontinental bombers. In 1951, Air Force announced that the Convair's YF-102A and the Republic's XF-103 were selected for the airframe part of the project. ...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£48.33	1
Anigrand Craftwork ANIG2021	1:72	Northrop YA-9A. In 1970s, U.S. Air Force launched the A-X requirement that a new designed ground-attack aircraft could provide stable platform for bombing accuracy over the battlefield area. It was also required to be durable for flight close to the ground, in range of enemy guns. The under-wing pylons could carry almost all arms in Air Force inventory. Unicraft UNI72119	1:72	Short PD.13 British 1950 two-seat, carrier-based attack bomber. In the early 1950s, the British Admiralty issued Naval Air Staff Target NAST 39, which laid out the service's requirements for a two-seat, carrier-based attack bomber for service at the end of the decade. This requirement was met, in 1955, by the brilliantly conceived and executed Blackburn/Hawker-Siddeley Buccaneer. But the Buccaneer was not the only response to ... Unicraft UNI72133	1:72	Airspeed AS.31 - Totally Weird British 1935 Fighter Project. At the end of 1935 Airspeed was invited to tender for a high speed fighter to specification F35/35. The firm submitted a highly unconventional design with a pilot egg-shaped nacelle positioned behind the machine itself. The main reason for such layout was giving the pilot extremely good view in the air and on landing approach in particular. The well proven 745hp Kest...	Aircraft kits (resin)	Catalogue	£21.92	1
Unicraft UNI72134	1:72	Arsenal VG.60 French late war advanced fighter. The VG60 is the latest draft of propeller fighter from the engineer Galtier, wonderful father to VG33-39 of 1940.
